

Letter from the Head

Dear Parents/Carers,

A short one from me this week. Just to say what another great week we have had. We have had a few visitors in this week, and they have all commented on what lovely children you have. One of our visitors, who delivered the train line safety assembly, was blown away by the orderly conduct and inquisitive nature of the children. In addition, our visitors from Redruth School were incredibly complimentary about the behaviour, knowledge and manners of the children. So, a massive well done from me (not that we ever expect anything less from the children) but it is always lovely to receive compliments like this.

I hope you all have a lovely weekend and manage to get outdoors whilst avoiding the rain/hail/wind.

Kind regards

Kieran Walsh

British Science Week

This Friday, we had the pleasure of welcoming Mr Choules and Mr Coomb from Redruth School for our British Science Week assembly.

Ablly assisted by our Year 6 Scientists, Mr Choules talked to us about the importance of curiosity in science and how we all need to keep asking questions.

Neurodiversity Celebration Week is about celebrating the strengths and talents of people who think and learn differently. Next week we will be thinking and learning about our unique strengths and differences and reminding everyone of the importance of being kind and accepting of everyone.

If you would like to continue developing these ideas at home with your children, there are some wonderful resources for parents / carers and children on the Neurodiversity Celebration Week website neurodiversityweek.com

Medicines

Please ensure that any medicines required during school hours are brought to the school office. For any new medication, a medical form must be completed before it can be administered in school.

Many thanks
